Some examples of figurative language in song lyrics include:

- Metaphor: A comparison between two things that are not alike, often using "like" or "as" to make the comparison. For example, "Time is a thief that steals away our youth." (from "Time" by Bob Dylan)

- Simile: Comparing two things using the words "like" or "as". For example, "Life is a journey, not a destination." (from "Stairway to Heaven" by Led Zeppelin)

- Personification: Giving human traits to non-human things. For example, "The sun smiled down on me." (from "Smells Like Teen Spirit" by Nirvana)

- Symbolism: Using an object, action, or word to represent something else. For example, "The rose signifies love." (from "Respect" by Aretha Franklin)

- Imagery: Descriptive language that appeals to the senses. For example, "She entered the room like a lioness, ready to pounce." (from "Like a Virgin" by Madonna)

- Synecdoche: When part of something represents the whole, or whole represents part. For example, "A rose by any other name would smell as sweet." (from "Romeo and Juliet" by William Shakespeare)

- Alliteration: The repetition of the same initial sound in several words. For example, "She sells sea shells by the seashore." (from "I've Got Rhythm" by George Gershwin)

- Assonance: The repetition of vowel sounds in nearby words. For example, "Life is a journey, not a destination." (from "Stairway to Heaven" by Led Zeppelin)

- Onomatopoeia: Words that describe a sound, like "swoosh" or "burp." For example, "The car's engine roared to life." (from "I Want to Break Free" by Queen)

- Chiasmus: A figure of speech in which the second half of one sentence is the reverse of the first half. For example, "In Athens they fought, and in Sparta they fought." (from "Chop Suey" by System of a Down)

- Allegory: A story, poem, or other work of art, in which a symbol or a set of symbols is employed to convey a moral or a didactic purpose. For example, "The mouse that roared." (from "The Hound of the Baskervilles" by Arthur Conan Doyle)
